COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course investigates the contemporary innovations and discipline cross-pollination, which have revolutionized and expanded the boundaries of the traditional fine arts in our era.
Students will be introduced to the creative potential of a variety of materials, as well as to a number of innovative methods. They will also be instructed in ways to combine traditional techniques with new approaches, and conventional media with creatively interpreted supplies and invented surfaces.
As the semester progresses, students will progress from an initial investigation of how to activate a flat surface and how to experiment with the dimensionality of form, to creating sculpted surfaces as well as free standing pieces. The incorporation of text, sound, computer-generated imagery, collaborative pieces and installation will also be discussed.

OBJECTIVES
The course's objectives are:

a. To learn how the contemporary innovations and discipline cross-pollination have expanded traditional concepts.

b. To prompt students to develop imaginative, personal and innovative creative responses to established visual theories.

c. To discover, learn how to use, and combine a variety of unconventional media, tools and techniques.

d. To give students a more concrete understanding of the place of Mixed Media in the contemporary art scene, by studying the work of various artists.

e. To increase the students’ understanding of advanced concepts of visual expression.

f. To further develop the students’ expressive vocabulary by encouraging them to incorporate their own particular creative interests and talents with mixed media.
Throughout the semester students will investigate concepts that have shaped contemporary visual expression as it applies to Mixed Media, and progress from creating works on a flat surface to working with pieces on-the-round, while exploring the following:

a. Invented texture. From collage to assemblage.
b. High and low relief and the box. Editing and “learning when to stop”.
c. Repurposed materials, found objects and ready-mades.
d. Sculptural media, installation and performance. Multiples.
e. Digital media, text, and sound.

Key concerns with mixed media works are developing a well-informed aesthetic, and a keen understanding of the potential of non-traditional materials.

Therefore, as the semester progresses, and while continuing to investigate the topics listed above, students are also engaged with a more in depth analysis of non-traditional media, tools, and techniques. They explore novel approaches to the elements of light, space, and time, and are guided in addressing complex compositional and other formal concepts in order to develop their own unique “voice” when responding to given assignments.

There are regular participatory critiques of projects, which are to be presented on the due dates. Due to the nature of the course and the unique way that each student resolves the topic undertaken, (which includes the discovery and incorporation of repurposed, non-traditional materials), it is of utmost importance that each student is present and participates in these critiques.

All work that students produce in the course must be kept intact until the end of the semester. There is a midterm portfolio review of the students’ progress conducted by individual appointments. The work produced, including the final project, is also reviewed and presented to the whole class at the end of the semester.

Students are required to participate in field trips to view professional work and are strongly encouraged to make regular gallery and museum visits in the Washington D.C. area. In addition, AVT students participate in one artsbus trip to New York City.

COURSE SCHEDULE

Week #1

Mon. Introduction. Expectations and requirements.

Wedn. Presentation of students’ existing portfolio to the class. Critique.
Looking for new ways to rethink old concepts, and old ways to use new materials and tools. Searching for and collecting materials in places that are not associated with artmaking (anything other than art supply stores).

Week #2

Mon.  First Project. Invented Texture. From collage to assemblage.
      High and low relief. Robert Rauschenberg.
      The relationship of form to content to format.
      Non conventional materials and approaches; discovering and editing.
      Learning “what goes with what” and “where to stop”.

Wedn.  Studio practice.

Week #3

Mon.  Studio practice.

Wedn.  Studio practice.

Mon. Final Project studio practice.
Wedn. Final Project and portfolio presentation. Critique.

Please note: This is a general course outline. Changes to the scheduled projects are not anticipated. However should there be a need for modification, students will be informed with updates in class.

CRITERIA FOR EVALUATION

The student’s letter grade is based on the following major components, each of which has equal importance in averaging the grade. These components are:
(a) the understanding and comprehension of the topic undertaken, the originality and scope of the solution and the craftsmanship and technical skill.

(b) meeting deadlines and participating in class discussions and critiques.
Assignments are due on given dates and must reflect the student’s best effort. Merely executing a project “because it is required” is not sufficient. Students are expected to be engaged, motivated and to strive for excellence. In addition, and since this is an upper level course, ability, an understanding of basic media and techniques, etc., is also expected.
Assignments that are turned in one class meeting late will get a grade lower, two class meetings late two grades lower, etc. You must complete all assignments in order for you to get a passing grade in this course.
You have the option of redoing your work for a better grade. If you wish to redo a project you must get the professor’s permission and present it no more than two class meetings later.

(c) attendance (both physical and mental), attitude and work habits.
Attendance in this course is mandatory; all absences must be made up.
Please note that if absent, the student must find out from a classmate what he/she has missed and what to prepare for the following meeting. The professor cannot take time away from regular class instruction to repeat lectures and assignment requirements for each absent student.
You are allowed a total of up to three absences. Any additional absences will result in a very low or failing grade for this course. Except for a serious emergency and/or a letter from a doctor, no excuses for late work or absence will be accepted. If you wish to be excused from class to observe a religious holiday, or for any other serious matter of a personal nature, you must bring it to the attention of the professor so that arrangements can be made for you to make up the work you miss.
Class starts and ends on its designated time. Habitual tardiness or leaving early on a habitual basis is very disruptive, and will affect your grade resulting in a half absence for that day.

(d) the professor’s observation and evaluation of individual progress (in terms of improvement, skill building, creativity, productivity, etc).
Due to the nature of the course, you MUST come to class prepared with the necessary tools and materials and to participate in all class discussions and critiques. Habitually coming to class unprepared and planning to spend the entire period working on concepts is not acceptable, and will result in a lower grade for this course.
Again, you are required to work in class as well as in your own studio space.

(e) portfolio presentation at the end of the semester.
Students are required to present their work to the class and be able to discuss all topics, concepts and terms they have learned in this course.
Final portfolios will not be accepted after the due date and time.

(f) participation in assigned field trips.
This includes one artsbus trip to New York City for AVT majors.

AUDITORS
Auditors are welcome in this course and are seen as informal participants with a primarily listening role, with credit-bearing students being the instructor’s priority. Auditors are expected to comply with the course attendance policies, as intermittent attendance becomes disruptive to the learning environment.

SUPPLIES
Due to the nature of the course many supplies will depend on the students’ individual solutions to the projects undertaken. In general, students should have available common studio materials and tools as discussed in class.

IT IS OF UTMOST IMPORTANCE THAT STUDENTS CLEAN UP AFTER THEMSELVES AND THAT ALL TOOLS AND MATERIALS ARE PUT AWAY SAFELY. THIS STUDIO IS USED BY OTHER CLASSES AND MUST BE KEPT IN ORDER. FOOD AND CELL PHONES ARE NOT PERMITTED IN THE STUDIO.

ArtsBus Credit and Policies: You are responsible for knowing and following Artsbus policies and rules. Please go to the ArtsBus website: http://artsbus.gmu.edu "Student Information" for important information regarding ArtsBus policy. For credit to appear on your transcript you must enroll in AVT 300. This also applies to anyone who intends to travel to New York independently, or do the DC Alternate Assignment. * If you plan/need to go on multiple ArtsBus trips during a semester and need them towards your total requirement, you must enroll in multiple sections of AVT 300* Non-AVT majors taking art classes do not need Artsbus credit BUT may need to go on the Artsbus for a class assignment. You can either sign up for AVT 300 or buy a ticket for the bus trip at the Center of the Arts. Alternate trips must be approved by the instructor of the course that is requiring an ArtsBus trip.

Students with Disabilities and Learning Differences If you have a diagnosed disability or learning difference and you need academic accommodations, please inform me at the beginning of the semester and contact the Disabilities Resource Center (SUB I room 234, 703-993-2474). You must provide your instructor with a faculty contact sheet from that office outlining the accommodations needed for your disability or learning difference. All academic accommodations must be arranged in advance through the DRC.

Cell Phones: School of Art Policies in accordance with George Mason University policy, turn off all beepers, cellular telephones and other wireless communication devices at the start of class. The instructor of the class will keep his/her cell phone active to assure receipt of any Mason Alerts in a timely fashion; or in the event that the instructor does not have a cell phone, he/she will designate one student to keep a cell phone active to receive such alerts.

Commitment to Diversity: This class will be conducted as an intentionally inclusive community that celebrates diversity and welcomes the participation in the life of the university of faculty, staff and students who reflect the diversity of our plural society. All may feel free to speak and to be heard without fear that the content of the opinions they express will bias the evaluation of their academic performance or hinder their opportunities for participation in class activities. In turn, all are expected to be respectful of each other without regard to race, class, linguistic background, religion, political beliefs, gender identity, sex, sexual orientation, ethnicity, age, veteran’s status, or physical ability.

Statement on Ethics in Teaching and Practicing Art and Design: As professionals responsible for the education of undergraduate and graduate art and design students, the faculty of the School of Art adheres to the ethical standards and practices incorporated in the professional Code of Ethics of our national accreditation organization, The National Association of Schools of Art and Design (NASAD).

Open Studio Hours: SOA teaching studios are open to students for extended periods of time mornings, evenings and weekends whenever classes are not in progress. Policies, procedures and schedules for studio use are established by the SOA studio faculty and are posted in the studios.

Official Communications via GMU E-Mail Mason uses electronic mail to provide official information to students. Examples include communications from course instructors, notices from the library, notices about academic standing, financial aid information, class materials, assignments, questions, and instructor feedback. Students are responsible for the content of university communication sent to their Mason e-mail account, and are required to activate that account and check it regularly.

Attendance Policies Students are expected to attend the class periods of the courses for which they register. In-class participation is important not only to the individual student, but also to the class as a whole. Because class participation may be a factor in grading, instructors may use absence, tardiness, or early departure as de facto evidence of nonparticipation. Students who miss an exam with an acceptable excuse may be penalized according to the individual instructor's grading policy, as stated in the course syllabus.
Honor Code  Students in this class are bound by the Honor Code, and are responsible knowing the rules, as stated on the George Mason University website’ Academic Integrity page (http://oai.gmu.edu/the-mason-honor-code-2/). “To promote a stronger sense of mutual responsibility, trust, and fairness among all members of the Mason community, and with the desire for greater academic and personal achievement, we, the student members of the university community, have set forth this honor code:

Student members of the George Mason University community pledge not to cheat, plagiarize, steal, or lie in matters related to academic work.

Mason’s Commitment: To create an environment that is innovative, diverse, entrepreneurial, and accessible-helping you avoid accidental or intentional violations of the Honor Code.”

Writing Center  Students who are in need of intensive help with grammar, structure or mechanics in their writing should make use of the services of Writing Center, located in Robinson A116 (703-993-1200). The services of the Writing Center are available by appointment, online and, occasionally, on a walk-in basis. The Collaborative Learning Hub Located in Johnson Center 311 (703-993-3141), the lab offers in-person one-on-one support for the Adobe Creative Suite, Microsoft Office, Blackboard, and a variety of other software. Dual monitor PCs make the lab ideal for collaborating on group projects, Macs are also available; as well as a digital recording space, collaborative tables, and a SMART Board. Free workshops are also available (Adobe and Microsoft) through Training and Certification; visit ittraining.gmu.edu to see the schedule of workshops and to sign up.
